

Diversity and practice

Course duration: 2 days

Suitable for: All criminal justice managers and practitioners

Make diversity real for your team

Diversity is a pressing and ongoing challenge for every criminal justice manager and practitioner. This is your opportunity to talk freely in a safe forum and interact with contemporary media that engage with current social issues. This course offers a unique ability to maximise innate potential and bring common sense clarity to the most fearful or confused practitioners – without flinching from facing realities.

Key course elements

The following areas can be tailored to your teams' needs:

- Transferable skills and knowledge
- Removing the fear factor
- The 'PC' debate
- Practice and service delivery
- Key resources and research

The trainer/consultant

Chiatulah Ameke is rated by many sources as one of the best Diversity and Race Equality trainers in the UK. For most of the 1990s he was a Groupwork Probation Officer at the flagship Camberwell Probation Centre for prolific and serious offenders in the London Probation Area, specialising in BME Offender and Cognitive Behavioural groups. Chiatulah ran over 500 BME offender group sessions and wrote the most influential handbook in this field. His unique level of experience and empowering training style has led to an ever increasing demand for his skills as a trainer and consultant from criminal justice agencies nationwide. He has delivered training packages to over 2000 staff in Youth Offending and Probation teams to date.

Testimonials

"Chiatulah's course was very well received. I would describe his approach as quite refreshing. He creates a truly safe and effective learning environment – very positive."

Helen Johns, Training Manager,
