

LAYJ Conference

Youth Justice: evidence and practice

Monday 29th
June 2009
9.30 - 4.30 in Central London

A one day conference in central London organised by people who care about youth justice practice. For practitioners and others working in the youth justice arena. Practice based workshops, expert seminars and plenary presentations

Speakers

Professor John Pitts, author of Reluctant Gangsters

The social meaning of gangs: implications for practitioners

Suzella Palmer, senior lecturer, University of Bedfordshire

Engaging with black young people in the youth justice system

Sue Howarth, Oxfordshire youth offending service manager

Working with children in custody

Penelope Gibbs, Prison Reform Trust

Reducing the number of children remanded to custody

David Burrowes, MP for Enfield, Southgate and Shadow Minister for Justice

Talk topic tba

Delegate fee (including buffet lunch and refreshments): £75 excluding VAT per head

Special Offer: four places for the price of three

LAYJ

changing lives
reducing crime

BACKSTOP

Nacro youth crime section and the London Association for Youth Justice: supported by Backstop

For further details:
Email: tim.bateman@nacro.org.uk or phone 020 7840 1201

Places are limited, so book early to avoid disappointment